Don't Ask, Don't Tell?

There are certain secret treatments women get but don't discuss. Ever.

Holed up in a plush suite on a high floor of New York's St. Regis Hotel, the woman sits patiently. "Don't tell anyone!" says Eliut Rivera, the blond beauty's hairstylist, with a laugh. "She's so open about her boob job, but she makes me swear not to tell anyone that she wears hair extensions." He says amusedly, "Oh please! It's so funny what people are private about."

Many women are fine discussing Botox to hide lines but admitting to a full-blown facelift? Plastic surgeon Robert Guida says that is where many patients draw the line: "One of my patients was fine with revealing her eye lift, but she thought a 'facelift' would make people think, I didn't know she was that old!"
